THE INFANTRY FAIR.

Crowds Still in Attendance and the Money Rolling In.

The Pretty Girls With the Books Win the Sheckels-How the Voting Stands.

The garden of girls bloomed with exceeding beauty at the rink last night, and each half-blown bud or matured flower was on the alert to catch the money-laden bees who came buzzing through the door. And the bees cheerfully gave up their shining silver for the honeyed smiles of the fair importunates. The most successful canvassers at the fair, if pleasant persistence may be called success, are two young ladies who are soliciting chances for a saratoga They will not take no for an answer, and no matter who the victim is he is obliged. and no matter who the victim is he is obliged to shell out the necessary dime. Another relentless pair solicit chances for a variety of household articles, embracing everything, from a barrel of flour down to a bar of soap. One of the sweet creatures has blackeyes and the other possesses orbs of a sweetly cerulean hue. The blackeyed girl paralyzes the blonde young men, the blue-eyed one transfixes the brunettes, and as a consequence they are obliged to call and as a consequence they are obliged to call a small boy into requisition to carry their money bag. A most noticeable feature among money bag. A most noticeable feature among the visitors last night was the presence of a number of sawed off young men. Some of them wore eye glasses, and they were consid-ered pie by the young ladies who were solic-

Mr. Charles A. La Monte, president of the Mr. Charles A. La Monte, president of the Cooper institute, and Mr. D. D. Kane, of the New York Industrial News, also visited the fair last night, and greatly admired the display. The base ball outfit donated by Mr. Richard K. Fox, of the New York Police Gasette, to be voted to the most popular club, was on exhibition last night. It consists of a set of base ball foul flags, base ball bag, and one dozen bats. The foul flags are the first prize and the bag and base ball bats the second prize. The flags are very expensive, being made of blue silk, with gold fringe and tassels instened to long poles, with gold spear tassels fastened to long poles, with gold fringe and tassels fastened to long poles, with gold spear heads. On each flag is the following inscription: "Presented by Richard K. Fox, the proprietor of the Police Gazette, New York, 1883."

Brilliant Reception by Prof. Alex Graham

Bell to the Scientists-A Wedding. An exceedingly brilliant entertainment was given last night at the residence of Prof. Alex Graham Bell, on the occasion of a reception tendered by the professor and Mrs. Bell to the members of the National Academy of Sciences now in session in this city. The spacious mausion occupied by Prof. Bell, which is better known as the Brodhead house, having been built by Lieut. Brodhead, was ablaze with light, and eleven rooms were thrown open for the accommodation of the guests. Aside from the elegant furniture in the house, Prof. Bell has gathered from his travels; in other lands objects of vertu and relics of antiquity which give an air of refinement wherever one turns. Added to these attractions last night were elaborate floral decorations of the rarest exotics, while potted plants were scattered about in lavish profusion. Indeed the floral ornamentation was the most elaborate ever witnessed even in this city, where flowers form an important feature at every entertainment. In Sciences now in session in this city. The portant feature at every entertainment. In the center of the supper table, which groaned under the weight of the most tempting viands, was an immense floral bell, while at either end was a telephone apparatus fashioned of the same fragrant material. These telephones were artistic triumphs of floral architecture, the background being of smilax, the box of carnations, the face of white rose-buds, while the orifice was represented by delicate violets.

The character of the guests was peculiarly noticeable, a large portion of the gentlemen having reputations which are not confined to this country, but are world wide—men prominent in letters and in every department of art and science. Nearly all were accom-panied by their wives or daughters. Weber's orchestra furnished music for dancing, which was indulged in until a late hour. Among the large number present were:

Mr. David S. Bory, correspondent of the Post-Tribinae, of Detroit, was married last evening to Miss Cora E. Bonney, at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 1209 I street. The wedding was strictly private, only relatives and a few personal friends being present. Dr. Elliott, of the Ascension church, performed the ceremony, after which the happy pair were duly congratulated by those present. An elegant supper was served to the guests. The happy pair left on the 9:50 train for the east.

Harry A. Hullfish, esq., of Trenton, N. J., and Miss Annie L. Skerett, of Philadelphia, were married on Wednesday evening at St. Mark's church by the Rev. A. F. Steel. Of the large number attending the wedding at the church, about 160 of the immediate friends were entertained after the ceremony at the residence of Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Robert Wilson, aunts of the groom, where the large number of presents were displayed. After enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Shaw and Wilson for several hours, the young bride and groom repaired to their own home on Capitol hill to study the art of housekeeping.

BASE BALL.

A Tie Game Between the Waverlys, of This City, and the Peabodys, of Balti-

Quite a large crowd witnessed the game between the Waverlys and the Peabodys, of Baltimore, on the new Athletic grounds yes" terday afternoon. It was the first of a series of games between the Washington nine and the clubs forming the Amatour league, of Baltimore, and was a fine exhibition of ball playing until the ninth inning, when in-different play on the part of the Waverlys allowed the Peabodys to tie the score. Dark-ness closed the game at the end of the tenth inning, the score standing 6 to 6. The following is the summary:
